Abus seize 4 peace workers in Basilan

ZAMBOANGA CITY—SUSPECTED ABU Sayyaf bandits yesterday seized at least four peace advocates in Tipo-Tipo, Basilan, in an assault on humanitarian workers helping poor communities in an area known as a hotbed of lawless violence.

US crisis claims 2 more financial firms

NEW YORK—WHEN WALL Street woke up on Monday morning, two more of its storied firms had vanished.

Lehman Brothers, burdened by $60 billion in soured real-estate holdings, said it was filing for Chapter 11 bankruptcy after attempts to rescue the 158-year-old firm failed.

Bank of America Corp. said it was snapping up Merrill Lynch & Co. Inc. in a $50-billion, all-stock transaction.

The demise of the two independent Wall Street institutions came as shock waves from the 14-month-old credit crisis roiled the US financial system six months after the collapse of Bear Stearns.

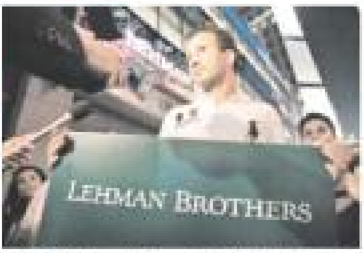

The world's largest insurance company, American International Group Inc. (AIG), also was forced into a restructuring.

And a global consortium of banks, working with US officials in New York, announced a $70-billion pool of funds to lend to troubled financial companies. The aim was to prevent a worldwide panic on stock and

World markets plunge

'A Category 5 storm is making landfall in US financial system'

LONDON—STOCK MARKETS across the globe plunged on Monday amid growing alarm over the world's financial system following a seismic shake-up on Wall Street, with Lehman Brothers declaring bankruptcy and Merrill Lynch being sold to Bank of America.

The US Federal Reserve, European Central Bank and Bank of England injected tens of billions of dollars into money markets after the fall of the two financial titans under the weight of the massive financing of bad loans.

In Europe, the FTSE-100 share index was down 4 percent in London, the Paris CAC-40 was off 4.5 percent and Germany's DAX 30 index of blue chips sagged 3.25 percent.

The dollar sank against the euro, which rose to $1.4299 from $1.4233 late Friday in New York. The pound rose against the dollar to $1.8052 from $1.7937. The US currency fell to 105.89 yen from 107.92 yen late Friday.

Solon says fund for gov't auditors getting smaller

By Norman Bordadora

THE BUDGET OF THE COMMISSION on Audit (COA) will continue to decrease if its allocation under the proposed ₱1.4-trillion national budget for 2009 is approved.

Akbayan Rep. Risa Hontiveros-Baraquel, a deputy minority leader, said the COA should get more money like other agencies that got bigger funding under the proposed 2009 budget.

₱135-M veggie scam: List of recipients dubious

By Jocelyn R. Uy

DID THE ₱135 MILLION WORTH OF vegetable seeds the government purchased last year reach the country's poor farmers?

In the absence of lists identifying the farmer-beneficiaries, the Commission on Audit (COA) doubts whether the seeds were actually distributed under the "Gulayan ng Masa" program.

"The receipt by beneficiaries of vegetable seeds and planting materials distributed by various regional field units could not be fully validated due to the absence/incomplete master list of recipients and other deficiencies, casting doubt on the truthfulness of the transactions," the COA said in its latest report on the Department of Agriculture.

The audit report has revealed several anomalies in the ₱235.7 million procurement of hybrid rice, certified seeds, farm inputs and fertilizer by the government last year. These included fake signatures in the list of beneficia-

Militants seek recall of 'offensive' textbook

By Marlon Ramos

THE MILITANT KILUSANG MAYO UNO (KMU) yesterday asked the Department of Education (DepEd) to immediately recall a high school textbook which "maliciously" labels the workers' group as a rebel organization.

"We demand the immediate pullout of the textbook. The DepEd, authors and publishers should issue a public apology and correction," KMU chair Elmer Labog said in a text-mailed statement to the Inquirer.

Labog said they were planning to press charges against Diwa Scholastic Press Inc., publisher of the textbook titled "Filipino I: Wika at Panitikan ng Makabagong Henerasyon."

The book, edited by Encarnacion Alvarez, was written by Angelita Ronzel and Teresita Lorino.

According to Labog, an exercise for students on pages 27 and 28, under the lesson, "Aralin 7: Pamahalaan at mga Batas," lumped KMU with such rebel groups as the New People's Army, National Democratic Front, Moro Islamic Liberation Front and Moro National Liberation Front.

The book states: "Mga gawain: Magsaliksik tungkol sa mga rebeldeng grupo sa bansa (Things to do: Research on rebel groups in the country) - NPA, NDF, MILF, MNLF, KMU."

"This is clearly a malicious and dangerous propaganda campaign against our organization," Labog said.

He assailed the book entry as "malicious and dangerous propaganda" of the government against the KMU, noting that the book was endorsed by the DepEd as a reference book for freshman high school students.

"The black propaganda against KMU only (confirms) the government's repressive attacks on unions and workers," Labog said, adding:

"In effect, (the government) is preaching that to form unions, to fight for just wages, to collectively assert your rights in the workplace and all that KMU has been asserting all these years are rebellious acts."

Along with other activist groups, KMU has been tagged by the military as a "front organization" of the Communist Party of the Philippines.

CHEd tightens up on public colleges

By Beverly T. Natividad

THE COMMISSION ON HIGHER EDUCATION (CHEd) will look into the operations of local universities and colleges (LUCs) that have proliferated in the country but which have inadequate credentials and facilities to offer higher education courses.

Newly appointed CHEd Chair Emmanuel Angeles, in a briefing Monday, told local government officials to check on the LUCs in their areas to see if they were qualified and properly equipped to offer college courses.

He said CHEd wanted to verify the qualifications of each LUC in terms of faculty, curriculum and facilities.

CHEd, he said, has been receiving reports many LUCs had sprung up in the last five years offering college courses in ill-equipped and dismal locations, such as above a wet market.

Many of the LUCs, according to the complaints, did not have qualified faculty members.

LUCs are public higher education institutions established by local government units through an enabling ordinance and which are supported financially by the LGU.

Julito Vitriolo, CHEd deputy executive director, said there were around 78 LUCs nationwide.

"I'd like to appeal to the local officials – since we are all in public service – to have these institutions follow (CHEd) requirements for the sake of the education system," Angeles said.

Tolerating such institutions, he said, would "make a mockery of the local higher education system."

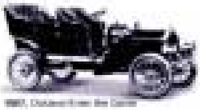

"It will frustrate the young people if they end up not passing various licensure exams after years of study," he said.

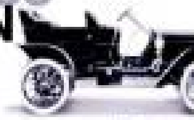

Angeles said he wanted to meet with the local government officials concerned, mostly mayors, to offer CHEd's assistance in, for example, providing professors' training and curriculum improvement.

"We'd like to ask them to set aside enough money in their budgets for their LUCs and not to open schools unless they are prepared to do so. We are not saying we want to close them, what we want is to monitor them," Angeles said.

WITH his camp realizing the futility of chasing the proverbial wild goose, Juan Manuel Marquez of Mexico (left), who had a smashing debut as a lightweight, will no longer go after Filipino icon Manny Pacquiao.

Marquez gives up Pacquiao chase

LAS VEGAS—JUAN MANUEL MARQUEZ was in charge of turning into boxing's Captain Ahab, obsessively chasing pound-for-pound king Manny Pacquiao through the years and across weight divisions in a futile quest for redemption.

After stopping the previously unstoppable Joel Casamayor on Saturday night, Marquez finally seems ready to move past his fixation on Pacquiao, who fought him to a draw in 2004 and earned a narrow split decision victory in the rematch last March.

"This third fight isn't happening because of the people behind him," Marquez said. "But I went to 135 pounds to do better things, and I'm doing them. I did my part."
